

Pedagogy as a free play

—Revelation from Derrida's deconstruction

Chia-Lin Chang

Play is the way to enforce motivation 、 transform emotion and promote creativity. Since play is a dynamic active and constructive behavior and a pleasurable activity that is engaged in for its own sake. It becomes an important metaphor and means of Derrida's deconstruction. For pedagogy, deconstructive play is ludic 、 funny and awe-some. It plays in the forms of opening reading 、 creative dialogue and equal status. Such ludic pedagogy takes profound insights on traditional doctrine.

Key words:Derrida 、 pedagogy 、 play 、 deconstruction

The Chief of Planning Section in Secretariat Ministry of Education